Principal’s Report:

Glacier View enrollment is at 180 students. The school has a new teacher, Tom Skinner, and he started in a new classroom on Monday.

By the end of the day tomorrow, Murray has registered 14 new students so far this month.

Sherri Rhodes has started a substance misuse group for girls. She will have guest speakers coming in.

End of term 1 was November 8, and report cards were issued on November 18.

Parent-teacher interviews will take place tomorrow.

November 5, the school conducted a lock-down drill. This is a drill that would be enacted if there was a threat inside of the school.

School photos were on Tuesday, and they went well.

On Thursday November 9th, grade 9 immunizations took place in the annex.

Today, Sara O’Maley took students to the Aboriginal career fair and students learned about some possible job opportunities. She bought them ice cream after. Some students returned to school interested in becoming police officers, in addition to joining the army.

FESL: Every school in the district is to come up with some goals that will enhance student learning. Murray worked with Kelsea to come up with a survey for students to fill out. Students will identify factors that they believe are hindering the academic success of Glacier View. From this, staff will work to develop goals to support student learning.

The school has an RCMP liaison, that has been checking in from time-to-time.

EDAS: The school is collecting donations of new and used warm clothing for homeless people. Students are making Christmas cards and painting paper bags that will be distributed in December.

School hamper program: The school is supporting a family of 5 this year.

Glacier View will be having a holiday luncheon. It will be held in the gym, on Thursday, December 19th.

The next PAC meeting will be in December 18th 2019.

The last day of school before Winter break is December 20. Classes resume on January 6, 2019.
